CAPT. JAMES T. LONG, JR.

TELLS STORY OF HIS COMMAND IN WORLD WAR.

Grandson of Capt. James T. Long of the Civil War, the Well-Known Lecturer and Guide.

Captain James T. Long, Company M, 112th Infantry, 28th Division, son of Harry Long, Gettysburg Battlefield Guide, made an address at the demobilization services at the Augsburg Lutheran Church, Harrisburg, of which Rev. A. M. Stamets is the pastor, on last Sunday evening and said in part:

"The American troops arrived on the field of battle just in time to save Paris from the Hun, and in stemming the tide of the German onslaught they not only saved Paris but France and the whole world as well. If America had not been ready to strike when she did the Germans would have been fighting in this country to-day."

Capt. Long belonged to the Iron Division. "In this division," he said, were 4,000 men killed and 11,000 wounded, or a total of 15,000 casualties out of 28,000 men, and if there is any other division with a record such as that you've got to show it to me."

"When we went across," said the Captain, "we passed through England, which the American doughboys thought a very beautiful country, and upon arriving at Dover received our first taste of war as it was being waged over there. Here we were greeted by a German air raid and shortly afterward after passing over the channel to Calais the Bosche bombers came along again.

"The British soldiers could not understand the actions of the American soldiers when one of these raids occurred. As soon as the first alarm was sounded the British Tommies grabbed their helmets and ran for shelter in a dugout. The American dashed out into the open, bareheaded and seemed to delight in the excitement. They wanted to see what it was and where it was coming from.

Fighting at the Marne.

"From Calais we moved on up to within fifteen kilometers of Paris and shortly after our arrival there, during the first week in July we were sent to the front to re-inforce some regiments of French troops.

"It was on our way up to the front that we saw a great deal of the intense suffering that the people of France underwent. We met hundreds and hundreds of French peasants coming from the war-torn sections seeking a place to live in safety behind the danger zone. The homes of almost all of these people had been totally destroyed. Some who were fortunate moved all their goods in a cart drawn by an ox: others carried all that they owned in the world on their backs.

"It was in the second battle of the Marne that our men got their first baptism of fire and it was in this battle also that they gained much of their fame. In the second battle of the Marne at least thirty German divisions were completely annihilated.

"There we experienced all manner of hardships. For eight days and nights we lay in the trenches. Food was received once in twenty-four hours. All the supplies had to be brought up at night, and even then with difficulty. It got dark at 10 o'clock and daylight came at 3 o'clock, giving three hours in which to bring up supplies. Any attempt to operate between the front and rear lines in daylight would quickly be broken up by the German big guns. At times the Hun artillery would destroy the mess as it was being brought up at night and on those occasions we had to get along on half rations. All the sleep that we got during those days was in the way of fifteen or twenty minute naps.

French Girl Murdered.

"After our fight here we returned again to the headquarters and thought, of course, that we were scheduled for a rest, but instead we were ordered back to the front again and took up operations at Chateau Thierry. While passing through the town of Chateau Thierry I had one of my worst experiences of the war. I entered one of the French homes there and found a young French girl bound to her bed hand and foot and murdered in cold blood. I tell you when you see a sight like that you don't take any German prisoners that day.

"From Chateau Thierry we drove the Germans back and they countered with what is known as a rear guard action. They fought only with artillery and machine gun nests. In this way they were able to kill off many Americans and themselves suffer only comparatively small casualties.

"The little town of Seringes was fought over nine times before the Americans finally gained permanent possession of it. When the Prussian Guard tried to take this town, after the smoke had cleared away eight wounded Germans were taken prisoners. The remainder of the 500 were buried. That is what the Iron Division did to the flower of the German Army.

"In all we fought for two months and a half without a respite. At one time we fought for seventy-two hours without any food. The continued tension was beginning to tell on the men, who were becoming weary and nervous. One lieutenant was known to have lost forty pounds in weight in ten days. Finally in August we were sent back for a rest."

The demobilization of the Service Flag for the boys of the church, who have received their discharges was done in the following way. The roll was called and some members of the soldiers' families pinned a silver bar over the star representing the returned soldier."

MT. JOY PICNIC POSTPONED.

Will Plan to Hold it Sometime in August.

The Community Picnic at Two Taverns was spoiled last Saturday by the pouring rain on Friday and Saturday morning. In fact the picnic had been called off but in the early afternoon the Washington party arrived composed of Congressman Kelly and wife, E. J. Ward of the U. S. Bureau of Education, and Miss Frances Farley of the Park View School. A meeting was hastily arranged at the Two Taverns school house and was addressed by the visitors. Congressman Kelly told of his experiences in France and Germany, and all discussing the question uppermost in the minds of Mt. Joy people,—the consolidation of all the schools of Mt. Joy township and the establishment of a centralized school. This means the abandonment of the one room school house in the district and inauguration of the graded system and the district paying the cost of transportation of the children from their homes to the school. Mt. Joy has now seven school and with teachers of these consolidated it would be possible to have grades and new branches and departments which would give the children of the district a great advantage over the present facilities.

Arrangements are being made to hold the picnic, broken up by the rain, in August.

Red Cross Activities.

The Gettysburg Red Cross Canteen have entertained visiting wounded soldiers from the Carlisle U. S. Hospital twice in the past week. Throughout the early fruit season the Canteen had become well known at the Hospital for the delicious cherry pies served at the dinners, of late it has been apple pies. Twenty four soldiers were here last Friday and the same number on Tuesday.

On Friday the soldiers were taken over the battlefield in cars furnished and driven by Miss Grace Schroeder, Mrs. Murray Long, Mrs. Norris Minter, Charles H. Smith and John codori and Benj. Veiner.

On Tuesday the cars were furnished and driven by Rev. F. H. Brunstetter, Huber Blocher, Roy Winebrenner, Wm. Rex, and Lawrence Oyler.

Guide Hoofnagle looked after the party on Friday and on Tuesday afternoon two cars with nurses from the Carlisle Hospital went over the battlefield under guidance of Guide Harry Long.

Fresh Air Children Entertained.

The ninety-eight children from the Brooklyn Inner Mission who are being cared for by members of St. James Lutheran congregation for two weeks, were entertained by C. B. Dougherty, Hanover street, at a lawn party on Wednesday evening. Refreshments were served and the Gettysburg Band furnished the music for the occasion.

On Friday evening the children were given an automobile ride which terminated at the Academy Building where ice cream and cake was served. Mrs. John M. Blocher was in charge of the arrangements for the evening and the refreshments and cars were contributed by friends.

It is likely that a second class of seventy-five children will be sent here on Aug. 13th in response to requests from Lutheran churches in the northern part of the county.

Two Gettysburg Captains Home.

Capt. Herbert S. Bream who landed at Hoboken from France last Friday has returned to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Bream, Seminary Ridge, for a visit. Capt. Bream was with the 11th U. S. Engineers and was on the French front for about a year and a half. After the signing of the armistice he attended the University of Paris for several months.

Capt. Maurice S. Weaver landed at New York on Monday after a year's service in France. Dr. Weaver is attached to the Medical Corps of the 5th Division and saw active service at the front for a number of weeks and received three citations for bravery and meritorious conduct. Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Weaver and Wm. Weaver, Baltimore street, and Mrs. M. S. Weaver of Washington, Pa., went to New York on Monday.

Caldwell Blacksmith Shop Sold.

James M. Caldwell has sold his blacksmith shop on Franklin street to J. Warren Gelwicks, of Emmitsburg, who took possession on Monday. The Caldwell blacksmith shop is an old established stand, Mr. Caldwell's father having started the business at the corner of Chambersburg and Franklin streets many years ago. More than thirty years ago J. M. Caldwell took over the shop and a few years ago moved it to Frankllin street when he built the present house on the corner.

FREE CARLISLE PIKE

TOLL GATES SMASHED BY COMMITTEE OF PURCHASERS.

Deed Presented to State Highway Commission at a Dinner at the Penn-Harris.

A committee of ten on Tuesday afternoon gave to the State, through Highway Commissioner Sadler, the Carlisle and Hanover turnpike. The road extends from Carlisle, through Adams county and into Hanover, York county, and is the shortest route between Harrisburg and Baltimore.

The road has been in the hands of receivers for many years. Recently people living in the vicinity of the road, especially those living at Hanover, purchased the road from the receiver for $10,000 which sum was raised by popular subscription.

When the committee went to Harrisburg on Tuesday they refused to pay toll at any of the four toll gates stationed along the road. In their autos they carried a number of axes and on their return they smashed all the toll gates to splinters. They will serve written notice on the toll gate keepers that their services are no longer required.

For years these toll gates have collected an aggregate of thirty-six cents from every vehicel that passed over the full length of the Adams and York county sections of the Highway. The Cumberland county section of eight miles was freed of toll gates several years ago.

The good roads enthusiasts purchased the road from the receiver, A Blair, for the sum of $10,000, paying the money at Carlisle on the way over and receiving a deed for the pike. It was then turned over to the Commonwealth without a cent of cost to the Commonwealth. The official presentation of the deed was made Tuesday at a dinner given by the Hanover men at the Penn-Harris. Other guests present were Speaker of the House Spangler, State Printer Robert Miller and Registry Clerk Milton Bergner. The deed was handed over to Commissioner Sadler by H. S. Ehrhart, chairman of the York-Adams-Cumberland Highway Association. Mr. Sadler congratulated the committee for the work they had accomplished and said that he was more than surprised at the outcome of the project, really amazed, for he did not think the deal would ever be consummated. The bondholders of the pike valued their property at $50,000. The State appraised it at $30,000. But after much effort here the owners consented to take $10,000 if it was raised in a given time, little thinking that the deal would or could be put through in such a short time. They reckoned without knowing what live sort of people live in Hanover. The actions of the committee are already history, everyone knows how their efforts were crowned with success, and what progressiveness was exercised by the contributors.

The road is one of the historical highways of the country. Courthouse records show, according to the Hanover men, that it was laid out by George Washington. It was the original stage-coach pike extending from Harrisburg to Baltimore.

The turnpike originally was laid out by the Carlisle and Hanover Turnpike Company and it covered eight miles in Cumberland county, twenty miles in Adams county and two miles in York county, passing from Carlisle through Mt. Holly, Springs and on to the Hanover. Before the road was finally built the debts piled up to $125,000 or more and the Court appointed a receiver.

Up untill about five years ago the toll gate receipts were used to pay the interest on the debt and little money was used for road building: but during the last couple years almost all the toll money was spent on the highway. It is believed that almost all the lien creditors are dead.

The committee presenting the pike to the State was composed of H. S. Ehrhart, G Stanley Shirk, P. N. Forney, C. J. Delone, G. H. Shirk, Burgess H. G. Newcomer, C. E. Phreaner, D .Guy Hollinger, C. Y. Brough, and Guy W. Bange, all of Hanover, and State Senator C. William Beales, of Gettysburg. On the way home the local committee at York Springs helped to chop down the gate there. At Hampton the local committee assisted at making kindling wood of the gate. Then after the two remaining gates had been blotted out, Charlie Altland, of Abbottstown, brought the party back to everyday consciousness with a liberal dose of chicken and waffles, etc.

New Music Teacher for Schools.

The Gettysburg School Board has elected Miss Aagot Borge, of Madison, Wisconsin, as director of vocal and instrumental music for the public schools. Miss Borge is a graduate of the music department of the University of Wisconsin and has eight years experience as teacher. The course in our schools has been enlarged for the coming year and now includes vocal and instrumental music in all schools, grades and High and will be the first time this course has been offered to the High School. Miss Borge will likely direct the High School Orchestra also. She is a sister of Mrs. S. N. Hagen, of Stevens street

COUNTY SOLDIERS ORGANIZE.

Post of American Legion Has First Meeting.

The Adams county boys, veterans of the World War, who will form the Legion held their first meeting in Gettysburg on Thursday evening and effected a temporary organization. About fifty men were present and the following officers were chosen: President, John W. Hartman, Gettysburg: Vice President, Percy Eichelberger, Gardners; Secretary, Earl W. Stallsmith, Gettysburg: Treasurer, Harry E. Troxell, Gettysburg. After a short business session at which the aims and purposes of the Legion were discussed they adjourned to meet on Thursday, Aug. 14, when it is expected a permanent organization will be completed. Rev. Pontius, chairman of the Welcome Home Celebration Committee, appeared at the meeting to present the plans for the celebration, after which they took action in favor of a one day celebration rather than a four day one. It is expected that at an early date enrollment cards will be placed in the hands of every man eligible for membership.

To Celebrate Golden Jubilee.

To celebrate her Golden Jubilee, having completed fifty years as a Sister of Charity, is the honor to be accorded Sister Vincent, of Gettysburg, at Louisiana Retreat, New Orleans. Sister Vincent was formerly Miss Anna Doersom, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Adam Doersom, of this place, and made her home here until after the battle. During the weeks immediately following the battle she assisted in nursing the wounded soldiers here. Later she entered St. Joseph's Convent at Emmitsburg where she took the vows. She nursed in the Hospital at Mt. Hope, near Baltimore and several years afterward was sent to New Orleans. During the Spanish-American War she was detailed with a number of Sisters to Huntsville, Pa., to care for soldiers in the hospital there. On Friday, August 1st, Sister Vincent's Golden Jubilee will be celebrated at the Louisiana Retreat and she will receive the honor justly due one who has rounded out fifty years of faithful and constant service. Miss Anna Doersom of this place is a niece and namesake of Sister Vincent

Charged with Helping to Steal Cars.

Sheriff J. Howard Hartman has in jail under custody one Clarence Cook who is charged with locating automobiles to be stolen and disposed of to a city gang of auto thieves. Chief of Police Smiley made the arrest and says Cook confessed when he was told of the mass of testimony they had against him. He is charged with the theft of the car of Rolandus Feeser of Dutteral's on night of July 2. Cook was in army and located in Gettysburg with the 60th Infantry two years ago, being discharged for a physical defect and instead of returning to his home place in Virginia stayed in this locality, living in Hanover, Gettysburg and other towns. He spotted the victims of the thefts and received when the stolen car was sold amounts varying from $5 to $40.

Littlestown's New Postmaster.

Elmer D. Buckey has been appointed postmaster at Littlestown by President Wilson. This appointment was among the first made by the President since his return from France. Mr. Buckey has been serving as the postmaster for some months and succeeds the late Dr. C. P. Gettier.

Shoes Wear Longer

When you walk in comfort; so do stockings. A package of Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder to shake into the shoes, gives you that "old shoe" comfort. Allen's Foot-Ease stops the pain of bunions, corns and callouses, and makes tight or new shoes feel easy.

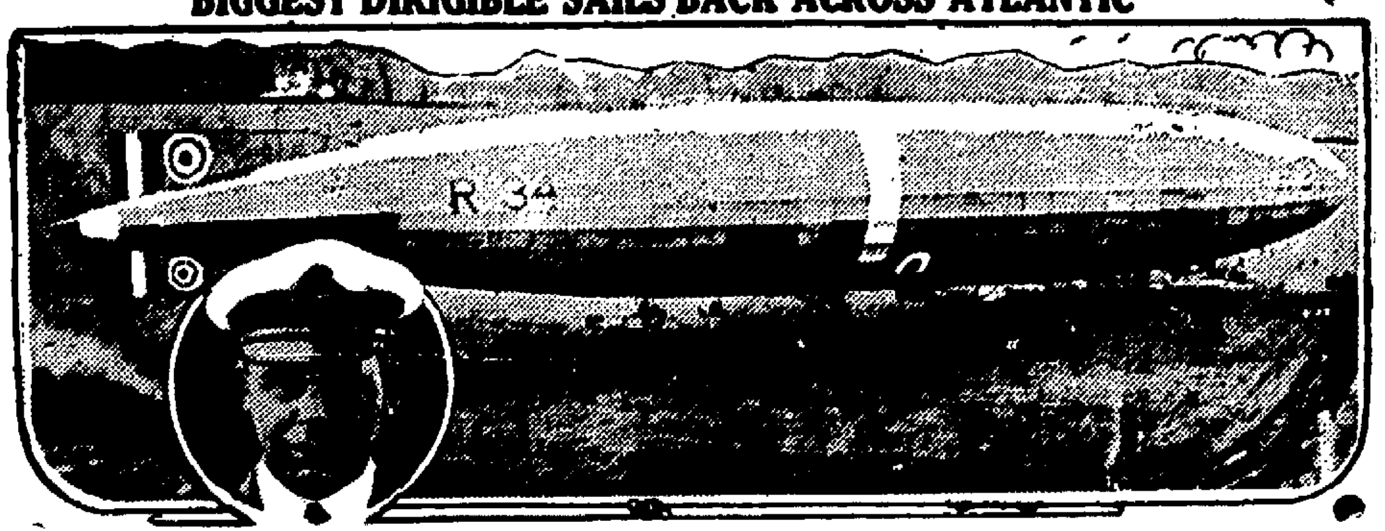
BIGGEST DIRIGIBLE SAILS BACK ACROSS ATLANTIC



Not content with establishing a world record as being the first to fly a balloon across the ocean, from England to the United States, Major Scott and his British crew of the R-34 had no more than landed at Mineola field, New York, than they were making preparations for the return flight. This is a picture of the biggest dirigible balloon ever built, measuring 634 feet long—about two city blocks.

INDIAN THIEF HAD INGENUITY

Remarkably Clever Stratagem by Which Piegan Escaped With His Booty of Stolen Ponies.

Among the many interesting stories told by members of the Canadian mounted police is one that has to do with the cleverness of an Indian.

One snowy morning a band of Crees awoke to find that about a dozen of their ponies had been stolen during the night. A band to go in pursuit was immediately organized, and in the course of an hour the trail was struck. The band followed it for thirty miles or more, till it entered a river and headed for a little wooded island.

Smoke was rising from the trees, and an opening, apparently the mouth of a cave, was in plain view. Presently a Piegan Indian showed himself in front of the opening. At his heels was a dog.

Pretty soon the dog scented the Crees, who were lying low, and began growling and barking. The Piegan looked up, glanced about him for a moment and then instantly entered the cave. In about ten seconds, another Piegan came round the rocks and also went in; then another, and another and another. The Crees lay silently in the bushes, counting, till upward of fifty Piegans had come round the rocks and gone into the cave, and still they kept coming. Each carried a rifle.

When at last seventy men had disappeared in the cave, the superstitious and cautious Crees concluded that the evil spirit had something to do with it. So thoroughly were they filled with this idea that even when re-enforcements came, which was in a few hours, they were reluctant to attack the island.

That night, however, one Cree, less credulous than the others, crossed over the ice to investigate. On approaching the supposed cave, he found that it was no cave at all, but simply an opening leading some ten feet into the rock, where it made a turn and came out on the other side.

There was the remnant of a single camp fire, the ponies were gone and not an Indian was in sight. The ingenious Piegan thief, by making the circuit of the passage, and the end of the island seventy times, had so deceived his pursuers as to gain the time necessary for his escape.

ARENDTSVILLE.

The festival to be held here next Saturday evening, the 19th inst., by the Volunteer Sunday School Class, should be well patronized for if they are successful the proceeds will go to the orphans and the Annie Warner Hospital.

Rev. J. A. Koser and wife of Sedalia, Mo., Rev. John G. Koser, of Maryland, and Dr. A. S. Koser, of Harrisburg, were recent guests in the home of Rev. D. T. and Mrs. Koser in this place.

Chas. Hendricks and wife, of Middletown, Pa., were week end visitors in the home of Wm. J. Stover, the former's brother-in-law.

Mrs. Rebecca Lecrone, of Wellsville is on a visit here among old friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Smiley with their three children visited in the home of Amos Minter the former's father-in-law.

Last Friday evening Cletus R. Culp and Melvin Warren shot three ground hogs and on Monday evening Culp shot three more.

Last Monday Calvin Carey took a large two horse load of early ripe apples to the R. R. station for shipment to the city. He was the first to ship any from here.

The blackberries are a large crop here and the frequent showers of rain we have had are bringing the corn and potatoes along nicely.

Owing to the high prices of building material and the carpenters' wages so high there are no new dwelling houses being put up in our town or immediate vicinity this summer.

We notice in the papers that the price of hogs has advanced to [illegible] per hundred gross weight. That will affect the man badly that has only a small financial income and a large family to support. P.

HAVE YOU A BAD BACK?

If You Have, the Statement of This Gettysburg Resident Will Interest You.

Does your back ache, night and day;
Hinder work; destroy your rest?
Does it stab you through and through
When you stoop or lift or bend?
Then your kidneys may be weak.
Often backache is the clue.
Just to give you further proof,
The kidney action may be wrong.
If attention is not paid
More distress will soon appear.
Headaches, dizzy spells and nerves,
Uric acid and its ills
Make the burden worse and worse.
Liniments and plasters can't
Reach the inward cause at all;
Help the kidneys—use the pills
Gettysburg folks have tried and proved.
What they say you can believe.
Read this Gettysburg woman's account.
See her, ask her, if you doubt.

Mrs. John L. Menchey, 46 Breckenridge St., says: "Several times in the past I suffered with backache and dizzy headaches. My kidneys acted irregularly, and bothered me greatly. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the People's Drug Store and they gave me such good benefit I haven't found it necessary to use a kidney remedy in a long time."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Menchey had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Want to Rent Old Castle?

If anybody wants to buy a ruined castle, described as "of great historical and romantic history," now is their chance, according to advertisements inserted in the British papers.

It is not exactly modern, dating, as it does, from 1066, and the advertiser states that "considerable outlay will be required to reconstruct it." The purchaser is assured, however, that if reconstructed, "a unique and charming home would result."

Nothing is said about ghosts, but it stands to reason that a castle of this age must have a large and lively flock of such insects. So here's a chance for some of America's millionaires to acquire at small cost a castle—and all that goes with it.

An added inducement is that there is good trout fishing near by, so that when tired of gazing at his unique and charming home the purchaser can rest his mind by going fishing.

British Land Changing Hands.

Land in the British isles is changing hands at the rate of 100,000 acres a week, well-informed real estate dealers estimate. By the end of this year some $100,000,000 in land deals will have been completed.

Large estates are being sold, mostly in small lots. One of 10,100 acres in Durham fetched $430,000 when cut up into 95 farms. Syndicates are getting in their work. One estate, valued at $500,000 was sold to a syndicate for $750,000 and the latter disposed of the land to another syndicate for $1,000,000. Only 3,000 acres were involved.

Tenant farmers are pressing for opportunity to own the land and large landowners are availing themselves of the chance to "get out" at high prices.

Big Demand for Diamonds.

The [illegible] all over the world so far exceeds the supply that the stocks of importers and cutters are practically exhausted and they are unable to fill the orders of their retail customers. This condition was attributed by New York jewelers chiefly to the prosperity of the country. The war-time period of bonanza wages has made the working people the nation's greatest diamond buyers. This class, it was said, had absorbed a large portion of the small stones on the market, but the rich man is as badly off as the man of moderate circumstances, because the larger and more valuable diamonds are scarce and higher in price.

To Make Mother-of-Pearl.

The secret of another German key industry has been discovered, the manufacture of artificial mother-of-pearl. J. W. H. Dew, a fellow of the Royal Society of Arts, found the process after much patient experimenting.

Doctor Dew was engaged during the whole period of the war in reconstructing, step by step, the method of manufacture.

Artificial mother-of-pearl is used for making fancy buttons, dress trimmings and many other articles. Before the war most of it came from Germany.

Farmers' Loan in Jamaica.

The agricultural loan bank movement was initiated in Jamaica in 1912 to provide relief for the small planters of sugar, bananas and coconuts whose holdings were injured in the destructive hurricane and drought of that year.

Wise Conclusion.

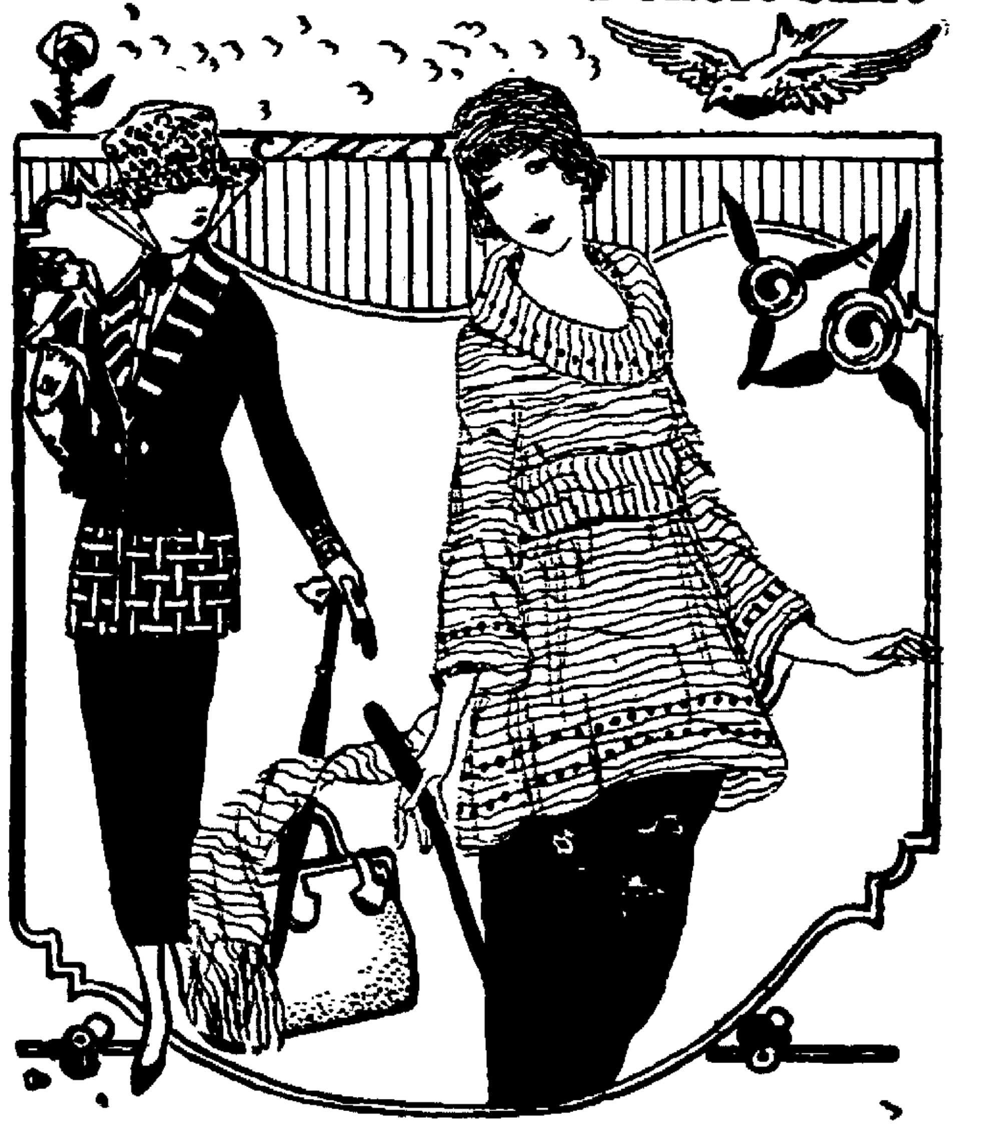
"Going to buy yourself a car now? Why don't you wait until cars are cheaper?"

"Say, all my life I've been waiting for things to get cheaper and look what has happened to the price of everything. I've come to the conclusion that the time to get a thing is when you want it if you've got the money to pay for it."

Modern Gallantry.

I shall be even disposed to rank it among the salutary fictions of life, when in polite circles I shall see the same attentions paid to age as to youth, to homely features as to handsome, to coarse complexions as to clear—to the woman as she is a woman, not as she is a beauty, a fortune or a title. I shall believe it to be something more than a name when a well-dressed gentleman in a well-dressed company can advert to the topic of female old age without exciting, and intending to excite, a sneer—when the phrases, "antiquated virginity," and such a one has "overstood her market," pronounced in good company, shall raise immediate offense in man, or woman, that shall hear them spoken.—Charles Lamb.

A Sweater Smock and Short Skirt



Woman said three years ago that the sweater "would not last," but each new season finds the comfy wool knitted in some new form. This new fall model for the first cool days is in a bright rose shade in smock model and with monk's cowl collar. The nifty suit on the left shows the return of the short skirt after a few weeks' absence, the basketry trimming being the feature.

As Europe Will Know Our War President in Centuries to Come

Older, care-worn and more sober than in his every-day American life, will be the way Europe knows President Wilson in the centuries to come. Sir William Orpen, one of England's most famous painters, was assigned to paint the allied leaders in the great peace conference at Versailles. Here is Orpen completing his canvas.

PUMPKIN PIE ALWAYS GOOD

Therefore Observer Wants to Know Why It Has Not Been Served in the Springtime.

A mere man asked me the other day, "Why doesn't the housewife make pumpkin pies in the spring when fresh eggs are cheapest?" Why, indeed?

The fact is we are creatures of habit, and are inclined to follow traditions in our cooking. Our foremothers made pumpkin pies in the fall because the pumpkins are ripe at that time. She continued the pies through the cold weather as long as she could keep pumpkins in her cool cellar. Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners always included pumpkin pie. The pumpkin supply was exhausted about this time, and therefore no more pumpkin pies were possible until the next autumn.

Times have changed. Now we have the pumpkin in sanitary cans all ready for the pie, and we can use it at any time we please. Pumpkin takes the place of fruits, which are already scarce as time goes on.

The springtime is the time for pumpkin pies—eggs and milk are then most plentiful, and therefore cheap. It is the time for custards. Our grandmothers established that custom, too. Pumpkin pie is after all a custard in which the pumpkin pulp predominates, therefore belongs by right in the spring and summer.

This is just one more instance in which we should drop the traditions which are outgrown and adopt a custom suited to our times.

Our family is sure to be surprised to find the luscious pumpkin pie served for dessert, and undoubtedly, like Oliver Twist, it will ask for more.—Exchange.

SAW MERIT IN TRANSLATIONS

James Russell Lowell Pointed Out How They Come to Serve a Very Definite Purpose.

I would have a public library abundant in translations of the best books in all languages, for, though no work of genius can be adequately translated . . . yet some acquaintance with ancient and foreign literatures has the liberalizing effect of foreign travel. He who travels by translation travels more hastily and superficially, but brings home something that is worth having, nevertheless. . . . Looked at from any but the esthetic point of view, translations retain whatever property was in their originals to enlarge, liberalize, and refine. At the same time I would also have the originals of these translated books as a temptation to the study of languages, which has a special use and importance of its own in teaching us to understand the niceties of our mother tongue. The practice of translation, by making us deliberate in the choice of the best equivalent of the foreign word in our own language, has likewise the advantage of continually schooling us in one of the main elements of a good style—precision; and precision of thought is not only exemplified by precision of language, but is largely dependent on the habit of it.—Lowell.

Lettuce Grown on Field Scale.

Lettuce is being grown on a field scale in the Imperial and Salt River valleys of California, fields of from 30 to 40 acres being not extraordinary. At the height of the production season—January and February—it is not uncommon for 26 carloads of lettuce a day to be shipped to the middle western and eastern market. This lettuce, grown under irrigation, is produced by hand labor and is of extra fine quality. The industry was developed on a commercial basis about three years ago, and during the last two years has been one of the leading agricultural occupations of the state. These localities also produce carrots, peas, cauliflower and table beans on a less extensive scale.

Business as Usual.

Bob—Who was the handsome chap I saw you dancing with just after the intermission?

Anne—He is a stranger in town.

Bob—Dashing, isn't he?

Anne—Nerviest fellow I've ever seen.

Bob—I noticed he had his arm rather tightly about you.

Anne—I didn't mind that so much.

Bob—What then?

Anne—Do you know why he had me clutched that way?

Bob—Can't imagine.

Anne—Well, would you believe it, he had me that way so I couldn't escape, and all the time we were dancing he was trying to sell me some life insurance.

Before and After.

They were both suffragists—one very pretty and young and the other much older. The older one voiced her views very emphatically for the younger one's benefit. "I think it's very impractical for women to get married before they are thirty-five," she said.

The young suffragist retorted instantly, "Yes, and I think it's very impossible for them to get married after they are thirty-five."

Making Studies of Volcanoes.

The department of agriculture has begun the extensive observation of the volcanoes in the United States and insular possessions and has recently taken formal charge of the observatory on Kilauea, Hawaiian Islands. Prof. T. A. Jaggar, Jr., formerly of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who has been director of the observatory since its foundation, will remain in charge. The investigations at Kilauea were begun in 1912 under the auspices of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and since 1913 have been maintained at the expense of the Hawaiian Research association, consisting chiefly of residents of Honolulu. It is expected that the weather bureau's work in volcanology will be developed in many details and eventually be extended to Alaska and other regions under the control of the United States in which active volcanoes exist.

Britain's Old Warships.

A great clearance of old warships has been ordered by the British admiralty. The decree will affect no fewer than 170 ships, all of which saw service in the war, and some played a distinguished part. Nine battleships are included. They are: Africa, Dominion, Hindustan, Duncan, Exmouth, Albemarle, Canopus, Jupiter, Redoubtable. The first three were built between 1903 and 1905, and the Duncan group dates from 1901. The Jupiter was completed in 1897, the Canopus in 1899, and the Redoubtable (ex-Revenge) was already on the list for sale as out of date when the war began. She was rescued from the mother-bank, and specially fitted as a super-monitor to bombard the Belgian coast.—New York Post.

Too Suggestive.

Sandy Pikes—You didn't remain at de wayside cottage long?

Gritty George—No, de lady was too poetical. She pointed over to de sunset and said de clouds reminded her of bars of steel. I thought it was time to beat it."

Big Red Men Pow Wow.

New Oxford has been making extensive preparations for the Twelfth Annual Pow-Wow of the York-Adams county convention of the Improved Order of Red Men to be held on Saturday, July 26th. A program of 84 pages has been issued, including advertisements. There will be two sessions, morning and afternoon.

The convention will be open to the public from 9.30 A. M. to 10.30 A. M. The introduction of the presiding officer will be made by Chairman J. L. Williams, Esq., the invocation by Rev. Wilber Allison. The presiding officer, John E. Wisler, will deliver an address and will be followed by J. L. Williams, Esq., in an address of welcome, presenting of keys of the town to the visitors by Chief Burgess J. A. Cashman, and responses on behalf of the Order by H. A. Waughtel, secretary, and on behalf of the visiting Tribes by George D. Sheely. There will be singing between these features. After the public meeting follows the meeting of the Order. The visiting Tribes are from York, Delta, Glen Rock, Hanover, Red Lion, York Haven, Fulton and Labott, York county, and East Berlin, Littlestown, York Springs and Hampton, Adams county. The paparade will be at 5 o'clock in the evening. It is expected to have ten bands in the parade with representatives from the 17 tribes.

The prizes offered for the parade are as follows: First, to tribe with largest number of men in line with band, $10; second prize, $5; third, to tribe coming the longest distance with band, $10; fourth, to tribe having the largest percentage of its members in line, $5; fifth, to tribe having best appearing uniforms, $5; sixth, to tribe having best float, $5; seventh, to tribe having largest number in band, $2.50; eighth, to best decorated building in New Oxford, $2.50; a dollar each to tallest man in line, shortest man in line, heaviest man in line, lightest man in line, and the best tramp in line.

MARRIAGES.

Kahl—Bream.—The wedding of Miss Ruth Bream, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Bream of Fairfield, and Geo. H. Kahl, of Waynesboro, as briefly noted in our last issue, took place at the home of the bride at high noon on Thursday, July 17. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Harvey C. Bream, of Buffalo, brother of the bride, assisted by Rev. Clark Heller and Rev. W. S. Bonnell, of Fairfield. The wedding took place in the parlor of the Bream home which was decorated with pink sweet peas and fern. Miss Mary Brown played the Mendelssohn Wedding March and the wedding party was preceded by Catherine Bream as ring bearer and Elizabeth Waddles, flower girl who strewed flowers along their path. The bride was handsomely gowned in georgette crepe with a tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to about one hundred guests and immediately following Mr. and Mrs. Kahl left for an extended trip to Old Point Comfort and other places in Virginia. They will be at home in Waynesboro after October 1st. The bride is an accomplished young woman and has always taken a prominent part in the church and social life of her community. The bridegroom who recently returned from France where he was a sergeant-major with the Balloon School, has returned to his position with the Landis Tool Co., at Waynesboro.

Crowl—Staub.—Walter B. Crowl, of Cleveland, Ohio, and Miss Reba O. Staub, of near New Oxford, were married last Saturday at the Lutheran parsonage, New Oxford, by the bride's pastor, Rev. W. M. Allison. The groom recently returned from France, having been in training at Camp Colt, Gettysburg, last summer, where the romance began. They will leave Wednesday for Cleveland, O, where they will make their future home.

⁂

Fry—Feiser.—Miss Mary F. Feiser daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Latimer Feiser, of East Berlin, became the bride of Arthur C. Frey, of East Berlin, July 18th. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. O. P. Schellhamer of York.

⁂

Hagarman—Breighner.—Lewis Hagarman, son of Charles Hagarman, of Hanover, and Miss Delma Breighner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Breighner, of Brushtown, were married Thursday, July 10, at Westminster, Md., by Rev. Fr. Ignatius. The newly weds will for the present reside in the home of the groom's father in Hanover.

⁂

Detter—Myers.—Miss Grace Myers and Morris C. Detter, both of East Berlin, were married in York July 17, by Rev. O. P. Schellhamer.

Big Apple Crop in Sight.

The first shipment of apples was made last week to eastern markets and from the early varieties to the latest winter varieties the picking, packing and shipping will go on until the apple crop has been taken care of. The yield promises to be a very large one and the high prices of last year are looked for a repetition this year. The export market will be available. Twenty-five per cent of the Adams county apple crop were exported before the war and the demand in foreign markets is expected to be large and high prices of all food products will keep the apple price up. The canning establishments will start as soon as the supply of "seconds" will take care of the running. There is very little waste about the Adams county apple crop.

Big Corn Acreage.

Secretary of Agriculture Fred Rasmussen reports the estimated acreage of Adams county in corn at 50,552 acres, seventh in acreage in the State, being exceeded by Lancaster, York, Berks, Franklin, Chester and Cumberland. The acreage in Adams in potatoes is given as 2,453 acres.

PUBLIC SALE

OF VALUABLE REAL ESTATE

On Saturday, August 23, 1919.

The undersigned executors of the last will and testament of Edward Bream, late of the Borough of Bendersville, County of Adams, and State of Pennsylvania, deceased, by virtue of authority given them under the last will and testament of said decedent, will sell at public sale on the premises, the following described real estate, viz.:

A TRACT OF LAND situate in Menallen township, Adams county, Pa., along the public road leading from Bendersville to Arendtsville and known as the Potato Road, one-half mile from the former place, adjoining lands of Dr. J. C. Stover, Allen Sheely, Lawrence Wright, Edward Plank and others, containing 128 acres more or less, improved with a two-story frame house, large bank barn, hog pen, chicken house, wagon shed, implement house and other out buildings, also a tenant house of brick structure with a pig pen, chicken house and other outbuildings. Don't be Afraid to Pay Enough for Your Tires!

It's poor business to pay too little for tires, just as it's unwise to "buy cheaply" on clothing or furniture. Of course, any tire will give some service—but why fall short of full value when a few dollars extra will buy all there is?

Let's be real definite. Portage Tires are "good measure" Tires throughout—every cent you invest in them buys full tire value. Firm, uniformly-woven fabrics, made from especially-selected cotton. Best-grade, new rubber—no "shoddy" or reclaimed stock. Painstaking, accurate work in the tire room; slow, deliberate, but absolutely safe vulcanizing and curing. Rigid inspection for defects—a Portage "first" is a first!

Portage builds for quality—then arrives at price by adding a fair operating profit to factory expense.

If you count last cost as well as first cost on tires, you will be interested in what we can tell you about Portage Oversize Daisy Tread Tires. Ask us for particulars—we'll be glad to have you come in any time.

House Adopted Prohibition Bill.

By a vote of nearly three to one, the House of Representatives of Congress on Tuesday passed a bill for the enforcement of prohibition with provisions and penalties so drastic as to bring from the men who framed it, the prediction that it would forever suppress the liquor traffic on American soil.

Exactly 100 members—fifty-two Democrats and forty-eight Republicans—refused to support it. Against this even hundred, the Prohibitionists, putting up a solid front to the very last, polled 287 votes.

A broad smile spread over the faces of the Prohibition leaders, for their work in the House was ended and the measure was ready for the Senate.

Declared Voters.

According to the reports made by the assessors throughout the county there are about 8,296 voters in Adams county. Returns from all districts were available except Arendtsville and Bendersville and counting these as previously declared, there are in the county 3,750 Democrats, 3,058 Republicans, 1,394 men who are over 21 and have not declared whether they have any party preference, 24 Socialists, 36 Prohibitionists, 29 Washington and 1 Bull Moose.

Law in Force to Trace Stolen Autos.

State Highway Commissioner Sadler has given notice that the provisions of the act of June 30, 1919, requiring garage managers to keep records of all cars sent to them for storage or repairs are now in force. The highway department has prepared a special form of report which must be used, the records to be kept in ink or indellible pencil and to be open for inspection for one year. The act was passed to enable stolen cars to be traced, and any car appearing with number or distinguishing mark defaced or changed must be immediately reported to local police officials.

Changes in Internal Revenue District

The Ninth Internal Revenue District of Pennsylvania with headquarters at Lancaster, and including the counties of Adams, Bedford, Blair, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Fulton, Huntingdon, Juniata, Lancaster, Lebanon, Mifflin, Perry, Snyder and York, has been abolished and added to the First District with headquarters at Philadelphia. On the one hand it is said that a deputy collector will be established in each county, resulting in an improved decentralized service. On the other hand many protests have gone out, showing the immense revenue collected in the old Ninth and the absolute need of having the convenience of the revenue office right at hand. Unless deputies are named at once to organize offices in each county the old Ninth should be re-established, for the business of the district certainly justifies a district that has been in existence since 1862.

Hold on to War Risk Insurance.

One of the finest things of a constructive nature that has resulted from the great World War is the War Risk Insurance measure provided by the United States Government for the benefit of the members of its fighting forces. Through the medium of this measure all men in the service were enabled to secure up to $10,000 life insurance at an exceptionally low rate.

Among the first questions asked by members of the fighting forces now returning to civil life is, "What shall I do with my government insurance?"

There is but one answer: Keep it in force: all of it if you can, or if not all of it, as much of it as you can. You are not required to keep it all, but it will be greatly to your advantage if you can keep it all.

Private life insurance companies are "boosting" government insurance. Should you be approached with a proposition to transfer your insurance to a private company tell the agent soliciting you that you wish him to submit his proposition in writing that you propose to send it to the War Risk Insurance Bureau before you make a decision.

Do not rush into the decision by a promise of a better policy, cheaper rates, higher dividends, special privileges, new features or any other consideration. Wait for the answer from the agent's company. Ask for the disinterested advice of your Red Cross Home Service Section.

The Home Service office is in the Court House and is open every afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock where information is given free as to insurance, allotment compensation, bonus, etc.

AMERICA IN TWELVE BATTLES.

War Department Will Award Battle Clasps According to These Battles.

The official list of battles, as designated by the War Department, in which the American troops participated in the war has been announced.

Battle clasps are to be awarded on the basis of this list. To be eligible for a battle clasp, when they are ready for issue, the officer or enlisted man must have actually participated under orders in the engagements.

The clasps are the bars from which a medal is suspended. In this case they prabably will be attached to the Victory Medal, which indicates that the wearer participated as a combatant in one of the Allied armies.

The official designation of American battles in the World War are:

Somme defensive, between March 21 and April 6, 1918.

Lys, between April 9 and April 27, 1918.

Aisne, on the Chemin des Dames and northeast of Rheims, between May 27 and June 5, 1918.

Montdidier-Noyon, between June 9 and June 13, 1918.

Champagne-Marne, between July 15 and July 18, 1918.

Aisne-Marne, between July 18 and August 6, 1918.

Somme offensive, between August 8 and November 11, 1918.

Oise-Aisne, between August 18 and November 11, 1918.

Ypres-Lys, between August 19 and November 11, 1918.

St. Mihiel, between September 12 and September 16, 1918.

Meuse-Argonne, between September 26 and November 11, 1918.

Vittorio-Veneto, between October 24 and November 4, 1918.

Clasps will be awarded to each officer and enlisted man who served overseas and who is not entitled to any of the twelve designated battle clasps as follows: For service in France between October 24 and November 11, 1918, for service in Italy between April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1918; for any service in Siberia and for any service in European Russia, and for service in England between April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1918.

A bronze star 3-16 of an inch in diameter will be placed on the service ribbon for each battle clasp awarded.

When an officer or enlisted man has been cited in orders from the headquarters of a force commanded by a general officer for gallantry in action, not justifying the award of a Medal of Honor, Distinguished Service Cross or Distinguished Service Medal, he will wear a silver star on the service ribbon for each such citation.

American Legion Official Button.

A button has been adopted as the official emblem of the national organization of 4,000,000 American Veterans of the World War and will be distributed in a few days to members of the American Legion through the state branches and local posts throughout the country. An enlarged design of the button, unless changed by the national convention at Minneapolis in November, will also be used as the basis for the official seal of the legion.

The button is three-quarters of an inch in diameter. It consists of a central small replica of the regulation bronze five-pointed star discharge button, surrounded by a narrow circular band of blue enamel, containing the words "American Legion" in gold letters. The button has a fluted gold edge. The central replica of the discharge button will be silver instead of bronze for members of the legion who were wounded in the service.

The necessary steps will be taken by the legislative committee of the American Legion, headed by former Senator Luke Lea, of Tennessee, and former Congressman Thomas W. Miller, of Delaware, to have the emblem copyrighted and its use fully protected.

Biglerville to Have "Welcome Home"

Plans are under way for a welcome celebration in honor of soldiers, sailors and marines of the World War from Biglerville and vicinity to be held Wednesday, Aug. 6. The affair will be under the direction of the various Sunday Schools of that place and will be held at Heikes' Grove near Biglerville. The program when completed will provide a variety of entertainment and good time is assured.

Rains Hard on Wheat Shocks.

The Adams county farmers had ideal weather for their wheat harvest, but the crop was so large that after the [illegible] had been filled stacks were [illegible] outside, and sad to relate many shocks were left in the fields. [illegible] shocks have darkened during [illegible] rains of July and have [illegible] out. Many farmers had [illegible] to thresh the crop outside [illegible] this process will have to be [illegible]. The dry wheat inside will [illegible] used first to make [illegible] crops. It [illegible] as [illegible] the wet wheat [illegible] the barns as soon [illegible] [illegible] quality of wheat will [illegible] out and the money loss [illegible] not be so great. In fact it is not certain there will be any loss. The western wheat crop is not as good as has been expected, weather conditions there cutting down the anticipated supply. When winter comes as good a price may be obtained for the wheat, even if the quality is not quite as good, as would have been paid now providing the crop all over the country had been a bumper one.

CAPITAL'S OLD MAID CLUB IS NO MORE

The "Old Maids Club" of Washington, D. C., is no more. The last member—of more than twenty young women who some years ago agreed "never to marry"—has closed the door of the club—turned the key and has followed Dan Cupid to the altar. She is Miss Lucy B. Morton, age 81 years. She married Frank M. Eliot—just at the hour the nation was going dry July 1.

MAY BE PHOENICIAN COINS

Recent Discovery Made in California Has Given Archeologists Some Food for Thought.

Examination by Prof. Oliver M. Washburn of six coins discovered in a canyon of the foothills back of Berkeley, Cal., and described by him as being of undoubted antiquity, has stimulated the belief of archeologists that the ruins of an ancient city exist in that locality. Antiquarians of the University of California, where Professor Washburn is assistant in the department of classical archeology, favor making excavations in an effort to determine the existence of important evidence as to the early history of this continent.

The coins were discovered by Chester K. Frost, an Oakland shipbuilder. While on a trip he was digging in the canyon when he uncovered a misshapen copper coin. He prosecuted his work and was rewarded with five pieces of copper, unquestionably minted by hand, according to Professor Washburn, and containing inscriptions in Greek and Latin. Two of the coins are blackened beyond recognition by the action of the elements, but through their irregular shape and general minting are described as antedating the oldest known Roman coins.

The coins are faintly embossed with the facial contours of divinities or legendaries in tempered copper. Coin experts advance the opinion that the material used fixes a remote period of manufacture, because tempered copper in coin manufacture is more or less a forgotten art.

One of the coins is about the size of a dime and bears certain resemblances to early Phoenician money, which bore the characteristic embossing of a woman's head.

One version advanced is that the Berkeley coins were brought to the California coast by Phoenician colonists who preceded the early padres to the bay district.

What He Missed.

My wedding was not far in the past and I was giving a dinner party for several bachelor friends of my husband's. I was especially anxious for things to run smoothly, as one of the party was somewhat of an "old flame," and I wanted him to see just what a wonderful housekeeper he had missed. The maid was new, so to be perfectly sure that all would go well I ordered the dinner in complete detail the previous evening.

In bringing in the soup the maid spilled a serving on the very man that I was planning to impress. When the meat course came on there was an absence of potatoes, and on asking for them I was informed that we were out of potatoes and she had forgotten to order them.

Needless to say that my face did not need the aid of any drug store for sufficient coloring, while the face of the young man in question reflected, I thought, positive relief that he had escaped such extreme lack of management.—Chicago Tribune.

Grey Victim of Ill Fortune.

Sir Edward Grey, former foreign secretary, now Viscount Grey of Fallodon, is preparing a volume of memoirs. He has grown almost totally blind, and is learning all over again how to read by the sense of touch.

Fate has brought tragedy into Sir Edward Grey's life. He was deeply devoted to his wife, a companion to him in his fishing trips and other outdoor excursions. She was injured in a runaway accident in 1905 and died. Always of a retiring disposition, the former secretary became more so under the poignancy of this domestic tragedy. A short time before the war a brother was killed by a lion in Africa. In the early days of the war his nephew, who would have become heir to the title of viscount, which was conferred on him when governmental changes saw him depart from the foreign office, was killed. The title, therefore, may lapse with the death of the first viscount. Grey, himself, for he has no children.

Secrets Betrayed in Sleep.

"It is much more usual for people to swear than to sing hymns in their sleep," says Dr. E. Coplans in a letter to the British Medical Journal. Doctor Coplans has been a patient in a military hospital.

"The percentage of talkers is astonishing; 60 per cent of the men in my ward indulged in it. The maximum period is from 12 to 2 a. m. Often a sentence is begun clearly, but trails off in a blur. One patient, a by-no-means pious Scotsman, startled me at 1:20 by singing in a stentorian voice, 'Abide With Me.' The melody and words were perfect.

"One speaker will start another going in an adjacent bed. Your sleep talker will answer a question, and there is no doubt that people give away secrets."

MISS KELLY CALLS HER KING A JACK
KING ALEXANDER

Josephine Marie Kelly of Chicago and New York, American girl doing Red Cross work, has Europe talking as the young king. Alexander of Greece continues to pay attention to her. When the king quit his suite at the grand ball, walking to the side of the little Yank girl in the center of the great hall—Athens diplomats and foreign ministers gasped. He signs his correspondence to her "Jack"—and that's what she calls his majesty.

Philippines Producing Newsprint.

The Philippines are in a position not only to supply newsprint for domestic needs, but to export large quantities of this product. According to a report recently made by the director of the bureau of forestry, the raw materials available such as the bamboo and two kinds of grasses, the cogon and talahib, are of such good quality and can be so cheaply obtained that if careful study is given this industry the islands will not need to import annually $2,000,000 worth of paper, as heretofore.

The Higher Culture.

"Your daughter is well educated."

"Educated! I should say she is. She's readin' books that ma and I would be ashamed to be found with."

Outside the Game

By S. B. HACKLEY

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Rah-Rah-Rah! Camden!" "Warren! Warren! Warren!" Camden's oldest inhabitants could not remember a finer Thanksgiving day—sunny and dry, and the big yellow chrysanthemums Herman Seidler, Camden's florist, had brought to perfection in his greenhouses near the football grounds, quivered under the volume of yells of the boosters of the rival teams.

Camden and Warren colleges had taken up athletics in general and football in particular a little late in life; perhaps for this reason their enthusiasm was all the greater.

And nearest the two warring teams were the two most enthusiastic football men in Camden town—Branham Riker, the young professor of Greek in Camden college, and Clement Sea, bookkeeper for Grimes & Quincy, the Camden wholesale grocers.

Sea's enthusiasm was of the silent variety. Though his blue eyes saw every move, he stood as quiet as a post. But Riker's black eyes flashed; his dark, Spanish-looking face glowed or glowered as his team scored or lost.

Pretty Jane Fithian, the daughter of the professor of mathematics, watched the two enthusiasts rather than the game, a worried expression in her hazel eyes.

Clement Sea loved her—that she knew, and Riker was going to tell her this evening that he loved her. Which did she care for? Clement had never asked her to marry him; he had not even called on her since Professor Riker had been going out with her so much, but it wasn't that he didn't wish to—but because he believed she loved Riker. That, too, Jane knew.

If she accepted Riker she would be the envy of the other girls of the town. Most any of them would think they were lucky to marry a college professor that looked like Branham Riker.

Out driving the day before in Riker's new car, Jane saw Clement, released from his afternoon's work, watching the teams at practice.

"It's a bit queer to see a sissy interested in football," Riker remarked.

"Indeed Clement Sea is no sissy!" Jane averred indignantly.

Riker laughed. "Well, anyway, he's the kind that gets henpecked after marriage and tells everything he knows to his wifey!"

Jane laughed a bit unwillingly, but under the spell of his fascination her resentment soon died.

"Warren! Warren!" The yell was louder, more exultant than ever. A crowd of visitors from Warren waved Warren's colors, red and blue. The white and yellow of Camden, too, waved defiantly, but it was evident that Camden was playing a losing game. Then the ugly thing happened.

The spectators had crowded up close. Jane and one other only saw a sudden mad act. The next instant the game was won by Warren. When the "wounded" were helped off the field, it was found that the coach of the Warren team was suffering from three fractured ribs. When the young man was treated at the home of President Sayre, black and blue spots were found on his side, inflicted by the hard heel of a shoe not in the game and not by accident. Who did it?

Jane Fithian could have told. Jane, who, in the twinkling of an eye, had had the cobwebs of fancy swept from her brain and the illusions of attractive personality, unaccompanied by decent self-control, dispelled.

The college president entertained the winning team at dinner, and at a two-o'clock feast, held at the home of the English professor, Shelby Frederick, Riker was one of the guests; Jane Fithian, an animated creature, with brilliant flags of color in her cheeks, another.

Soon after the guests left the dining room Jane sought her young hostess in the dressing room.

"You're not going, Jane?" she exclaimed in surprise. "Are you forgetting we're all going for a moonlight ride this evening—and—and isn't Professor Riker taking you?"

"I've got to go home, Elsie," Jane answered. "They're all dining out—there's nobody there, and I've just remembered something I—perhaps I will come back after a while."

"Let Upton take you in the car if you must go, Jane," her friend suggested. Jane shook her brown head.

"No, I want to walk."

"I'm behind on my work since I've been losing sleep of night. I've got to go to the office now and begin a long afternoon's work." Jane had heard a man say in refusing a dinner invitation at the grounds that morning.

When Clement Sea took down the telephone receiver the voice that came over the wire sent his heart leaping.

"Will you please come up to the house—right now?" it said.

"I—I am very busy," he stammered.

"Oh, Clement," the voice was tremulous, "I will keep you but a few minutes. I—I must see you."

Five minutes later Jane answered his ring at the Fithian doorbell and led him to the parlor.

"Why haven't you been around to see us this long time?" she demanded lightly.

He tried to answer her as lightly, but ended in the stammered truth.

"I—I—Jane, do you think a fellow wants to hang around the girl he's loving until his heart aches for her—when he knows he's outside the game?"

Jane's breath came quick, then she smiled coquettishly.

"Clement," she asked irrelevantly, "who was it hurt Mr. Swift today. Who was it kicked him when he slipped and fell?"

Clement reddened to the roots of his hair, then as quickly paled. He had thought he alone saw that rash act.

"Jane—I—nobody would believe me if I told what I saw. I—I mustn't tell you!"

"I would believe you," she answered.

"That's all the more reason why I shouldn't tell you," he said soberly; "it might make you unhappy. I can't tell you that, Jane; don't ask me!"

Jane's heart beat a rapturous tune. "I knew he wouldn't," she exulted. "I knew all the time that he wouldn't!"

"I—Clem—" she went on, "if I tell you I want one—do you think you can get Innis or the other jeweler to open his shop this afternoon to—to get me an engagement ring?"

The petals of the pink chrysanthemum she held in her fingers fell to the floor. Clement looked at her in a happy agony of incredulity. He felt like the heavens had opened and a messenger had called to him—who had stood for years at the gate, to come in.

"Why the engagement ring today, my sweet?" he demanded tenderly some moments later, of the ear that was not resting on his rough serge coat. "Can't we be engaged until to-morrow without the ring?"

The face that belonged to the ear raised a trifle.

"Clem, there's a man—no, a thing—going to ask me to marry him this evening, and I want—I want—"

"Go on," prompted Sea, as she hesitated, holding her a little closer; "I can stand even that now!"

"I want to be wearing your ring then!" she cried. "I want to show him I belong— He's so—so dominant and sure, and—and—cruel—I'm afraid of him!"

Clement released her. "Little coward," he said. "Show me the telephone. I think I know where Innis is spending his afternoon."

BATHS ON ANCIENT VESSEL

Wonders of Old Greek Ship As They Were Described in Lecture by Harvard Professor.

An ancient Syracusan ship—a Greek Mauretania—that carried vast cargoes and had a gymnasium, bath, lounge and gardens aboard, was described by Prof. W. S. Ferguson of Harvard in a lecture on Greek economic development.

Professor Ferguson said it was of the three-deck type, with 20 banks of oars, that required one whole year in building, and which was manned by a crew of 300 sailors, together with 600 marines.

In its hold it would carry 110,000 bushels of wheat, wool, thousands of jars of salt fish and other foodstuffs. Its cabins were decorated with elaborate mosaics, one set of them picturing all of the Iliad.

Its chambers included a gymnasium, a lounge with a "book shelf," a bath provided with 50 gallons of water, stalls for horses, "gardens" or conservatories, and, in addition to all these luxuries and necessities, it had equipment and engines of defense which gave it the character almost of a ship of war.

Suspicion.

There are minds so habituated to intrigue and mystery in themselves, and so prone to expect it from others, that they will never accept of a plain reason for a plain fact, if it be possible to devise causes for it that are obscure, far-fetched and usually not worth the carriage. Like the miser of Berkshire, who would ruin a good horse to escape a turnpike, so these gentlemen ride their highbred theories to death, in order to come at truth through by-paths, lanes and alleys, while she herself is jogging quietly along upon the high and beaten road of common sense. The consequence is, that they who take this mode of arriving at truth are sometimes before her and sometimes behind her, but very seldom with her.—Anonymous.

Curious Clock.

Everybody stops to look at a clock in the offices of the Manufacturers' association in Seattle, Wash. It is a curious timepiece, the works of which are incased in a hollow section of a Douglas fir log, about 250 years old. The section of the log serves admirably as a dial for the clock. The appearance of the clock is not its only claim to distinction. Its size only warrants more than ordinary interest. The dial of this clock is more than three and a half feet in diameter and the minute hand more than four feet long.

Chinese National Art.

The Chinese have a national art in the production of porcelain. Not until the time Palissy and Wedgewood can Europe be said to have entered into rivalry with the best work of China. Chinese work in porcelain represents ideals and symbolic usages, which have their counterpart in the medieval stained glass to be seen in many of the oldest cathedrals.

GOT THINGS DONE

Quality That Was Characteristic of Colonel Roosevelt.

Matter of the Removal of Old Railroad Station in Washington Recalled as a Proof of His Energy.

Since the death of Colonel Roosevelt, old-timers in Washington have been recalling many incidents illustrative of the tremendous vitality of the man, his determination to get things accomplished, and his unwillingness to let red tape interfere with the accomplishment of that which seemed necessary to be done. One of these incidents was recounted the other day by Col. William Boyce Thompson, chairman of the Roosevelt Memorial association. It was narrated with much appreciation by a congressman who didn't appreciate it so much when it occurred. It ran as follows:

The government was co-operating with the Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio railroads in the project for a new union station—the present fine edifice. The site of the Pennsylvania's old station—now the mall near the White House—had been purchased by the government, and it was purposed to raze the buildings. But congress had been held late in a special session, and the members were anxious to get home, so it was decided to postpone the letting of bids for tearing down the buildings until congress reassembled the next fall. This duty naturally devolved on the committee on the District of Columbia, which has charge of government property in the district. Meantime a major of engineers was placed in charge, as custodian.

When the committee held its first meeting at the next session of congress, the matter of letting contracts for the razing of the old station was brought up.

"Why, gentlemen," declared an astonished representative, "there is nothing to tear down. I walked past there this morning, and there's nothing but the bare earth where the old station stood."

The committee sent post-haste for the custodian, and the chairman asked him sharply what had become of the building he had charge of.

"It has been razed and the material stored, sir," replied the major.

"By whose order?" queried the chairman, red in the face.

"By order of President Roosevelt, sir."

"Where in —— did he get any authority to butt into our business?" exploded the chairman.

"Well, sir," said the major, "it is not for me to question the authority or the orders of my commander in chief, but to obey them. And I did, sir."

And congress decided to consider it a fact accomplished, and let it go at that.

A Bachelor's Complaint.

I cannot say that the quarrels of men and their wives ever made any great impression upon me, or had much tendency to strengthen me in those anti-social resolutions which I took up long ago upon more substantial considerations. What oftenest offends me at the house of married persons where I visit, is an error of quite a different description—it is that they are too loving. Not too loving neither: that does not explain my meaning. Besides, why should that offend me? The very act of separating themselves from the rest of the world, to have the fuller enjoyment of each other's society, implies that they prefer one another to all the world. But what I complain of is, that they carry this preference so undisguisedly, they perk it up in the faces of us single people so shamelessly, you cannot be in their company a moment without being made to feel, by some indirect hint or open avowal that you are not the object of his preference.—Charles Lamb.

Da Vinci Thought of Tank.

Italy has just celebrated the fourth centenary of Leonardo da Vinci's death. His name has been often mentioned during the war and his prophetic genius recalled. It is known that he intended to build airplanes for war purposes, but it is now claimed also that he was the first to think of the tank. In his letters to Il Moro he speaks of armored cars which could shelter the occupants and drive right amongst the enemy's masses, slaying and shattering all opposition. It is unfortunate that more is not known of Leonardo's intentions, and of the way in which he proposed to propel his craft. Horses might possibly have been intended, for if a horse could carry less weight than the armored motor, protection in those days was more easily got than now. But it is certainly very singular to read that his cars were to charge ahead while the infantry would follow behind—for this is exactly what happened four hundred years after his death.

Wrong Diagnosis.

"That picturesque old gentleman sitting there under the tree must be at least an octogenarian," commented the motorist who had stopped for a drink of water.

"Say, look yur!" truculently returned Gabe Yaw of the Sandy Mush region. "You're talking about my Uncle Rip! He's eighty-two years old and can't take up for himself, but I want you to understand, by thunder, that he hain't no part nigger!"—Judge.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine, manufactured by F. J.
